Updated 9/26/2019 - Thanks to a new generation of researchers and the rerelease of all classic footage on high-definition BluRay discs, many higher resolution screen captures have emerged, particularly of the “Distinguished Service Medallion” used by Commanders Cain and Kronus, as well as Colonel Boomer (from Galactica: 1980). Because of this recently-discovered evidence, I have decided to update this document for the first time in 11 years, for the sake of accuracy. The bottom piece was NOT the European Command badge, like I originally believed. Many thanks to Bionic Moon Labs and YourProps.com for this information.

“Distinguished Service Medallion” (in gold – Commanders Cain & Kronus)

NOTE: Colonel Boomer appears to have a similar device in Galactica: 1980, but in silver

Updated 12/18/2019 – Another 2019 update includes additional information about the Reconnaissance “Starchaser” Viper Helmet that Starbuck wore in “The Lost Warrior”. This is a two-piece assembly, with the main badge portion sourcing from a WWII-era Siamese/Thailand Army helmet badge (turned upside-down). The top piece is an embossed decoration from the same southeast Asia region (Thailand/Cambodia/Laos) using the traditional “chada royal crest” motif. Many thanks to Bionic Moon Labs for this information.
